

Armando Quintananieves is the Director of Security Operations at U.S. General Services Administration's (GSA) Office of the Chief Information Security Officer (OCISO). He is responsible for the management of the Enterprise Vulnerability program and operational support security services at the enterprise level including managing firewalls, intrusion prevention systems, domain name systems (DNS), endpoint protection, event management (SIEM), and Penetration Testing.

Before becoming Director of Security Operations, he was the team lead for the vulnerability and penetration testing team at GSA. He is an adjunct professor at the University of Maryland Global Campus at the Computer Networks and Cybersecurity Department.

He has a master's in Information Technology specializing in Information Assurance from the University of Maryland University College (UMUC) and bachelor's degrees from UMUC in Computer Networks and Cybersecurity; and, Software Development and Security. He lives in Gaithersburg, MD with his wife and two kids. In his spare time, he does Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu.