

Jason Sutherland

Originally a Kiwi and now naturalised Brit, Jason is currently situated in London with over 9 years at Cloudreach in various architect, strategy and leadership roles. He has a strong, well-rounded background in technology, strategic product planning and development, and commercial operations.

Having worked with a variety of organisations in multiple industries, large and small, Jason has focused on fast tracking organisations to a cloud-native way of operating and aided many in productising the next generation of their services.

Given the fusion of deep skills in multi-cloud enterprise strategy and SaaS-based product management, he looks to not only deliver the unified technical outcomes promised in engagements, but promote a sustainable innovation-led mindset across the organisations he works with.

Years experience: 10+

Location: London, UK

Background:

Architecture, Strategy, Software & Product.

Experience:

- Cloud Strategy, Architecture and Transformation
- Cloud-Native Application and Data Modernization
- Product and Software Delivery

Specialization:

- Application Portfolio modernization
- New digital ventures & innovation
- Cloud SaaS Development & GTM
- High performance product & dev teams
- DevOps adoption at scale

