Sam J. Tangredi, Ph.D.
CAPT, USN (Ret.)

Dr. Tangredi is the Leidos Chair of Future Warfare Studies, Director of the Institute for Future Warfare Studies, and Professor of National, Naval and Maritime Strategy in the Center for Naval Warfare Studies of the U.S. Naval War College. He has wide experience as a strategic planner and director of strategic planning teams. Sam has published five books, over 150 journal articles, and numerous reports and presentations for a wide range of government and academic organizations. His latest edited book, AI at War: How Big Data, Artificial Intelligence, and Machine Learning Are Changing Naval Warfare will be published in Winter 2021. His previous writings have won professional literature awards including the U.S. Naval Institute's Arleigh Burke prize and U.S. Navy League's Alfred Thayer Mahan Award. He is a leading national expert on anti-access/area denial strategies and access to the global commons, and is author of Anti-Access Warfare: Countering A2/AD Strategies (Naval Institute Press, 2013). Dr. Tangredi is a retired U.S. Navy Captain who held command at sea.